House Page Program

The North Carolina House Page Program offers a unique and firsthand educational experience to students from across the state. Each year, the program provides a captivating insight into state government by connecting students with elected leaders of North Carolina. Pages will have the opportunity to observe North Carolina lawmakers, staff, lobbyists, and constituents working together in the legislative process. The Pages will witness and learn how a bill becomes law, the structure of state government, and the legislative process.

Duties

- Daily Sessions: All Pages attend session in the House Chamber. During session, bills are introduced, debated, and passed. Pages are assigned to strategic stations throughout the Chamber to be available to assist House Members. House Pages may be asked to deliver messages, bills, amendments, committee reports, run errands, and distribute other documents during session.
- Committee Meetings: Each House Page is assigned to attend and assist in committee meetings.
