- 2) Convene an initial meeting of the SRCC. The initial meeting of the SRCC was held on October 11, 2017;
- 3) Develop a list of potential State Reentry Council Collaborative workgroups, identify participants and gather contact information, areas of interest, and those interested in leadership roles. Department of Public Safety staff are currently working with SRCC members to identify workgroup chairs and members. Once identified and in place, these workgroups will be developing substantive recommendations for review by the State Reentry Council Collaborative for presentation to the Joint Legislative Oversight Committee on Justice and Public Safety; and
- 4) Discuss the needs of formerly incarcerated individuals and identify the methods to strengthen local reentry councils. SRCC members began this process during the October meeting and have developed a list which includes but is not limited to incorporating evidence-based practices in reentry programming and services, utilizing education as a reentry strategy, addressing health, medical, and mental health services pre and post release, cultivating employers willing to hire justice-involved individuals, continuing to work with the Department of Transportation to look at driver's license issues and developing more transportation options especially in rural areas, developing more transitional and affordable housing options, addressing legal issues such as expungement, providing more opportunities for family reunification prior to release and ongoing support after release, utilizing available veteran's services, engaging the faith-based and non-profit community in reentry work, providing comprehensive training for mentorship and service delivery, and addressing the different reentry needs of special populations such as females and sex offenders.

There are concurrent activities underway to support local reentry councils. Local Reentry Councils (LRCs) will gather for a convening to share best practices, evaluate ongoing challenges, and examine the impact of the local reentry councils. The convening of the LRCs is scheduled for November 17, 2017.
