8           home.

9           "§ 53-532. Establishment of account.

10          A first-time home buyer may establish a first-time home buyer savings account for 11          the first-time home buyer, either individually or jointly.

12          "§ 53-533. Notice.

13          When an account holder establishes an account, the account administrator must 14          provide the account holder with a written notice of the following information:

15           (1) The federal tax treatment of a first-time home buyer savings account is 16           the same as for a regular savings account. There is no federal tax 17           deduction or credit for a first-time home buyer savings account.

18           (2) North Carolina provides a State tax deduction for a limited amount of 19           the deposits in and earnings on a first-time home buyer savings
20           account. Any deposits and earnings in excess of the legal maximums 21           are not deductible.

22           (3) When the account holder withdraws funds from a first-time home 23           buyer savings account, State income tax will be imposed on any 24           portion that is deducted for federal income tax purposes.

25           (4) If an account holder withdraws funds from a first-time home buyer
26           savings account and uses the funds other than for eligible costs, State 27           income tax as well as a ten percent (10%) penalty will be imposed on 28           the amount withdrawn.

29           (5) The account will be terminated at the end of the tenth calendar year 30           after the date it was established and all funds in the account will be 31           disbursed to the account holder.

32          "§ 53-534. Withdrawal of funds for purposes other than eligible costs.

33           (a) An account holder may withdraw money from the first-time home buyer's 34           savings account for any purpose other than eligible costs for the first-time purchase of a 35           single-family residence only on the last business day of the account administrator's
36           business year. Money withdrawn from an account under this subsection must be taxed 37           as ordinary income of the account holder.

38           (b) If the account holder withdraws money from the account other than for 39           eligible costs for the purchase of a single-family residence or other than on the last 40           business day of the account administrator's business year, the account administrator
41           shall withhold from the amount of the withdrawal and, on behalf of the account holder, 42           pay as a penalty to the Civil Penalty and Forfeitures Fund an amount equal to ten 43           percent (10%) of the amount of the withdrawal. Money withdrawn from an account 44           under this subsection shall be taxed as ordinary income of the account holder.

1       (c) The account administrator must terminate the account on the last day of the 2 tenth calendar year after the date it was established and must disburse all funds in the 3 account to the account holder. Funds disbursed under this subsection are subject to the 4 penalty provided in subsection (a) of this section except to the extent that, before 5 disbursement, the account holder provides documentation of eligible costs paid by the 6 account holder.

7       (d) Upon the death of a single account holder or the death of all joint account 8 holders, the account administrator must terminate the account and disburse all funds in 9 the account in accordance with the terms of the account.

10 "§ 53-535. Administration of account.

11       (a) An account administrator shall administer the first-time home buyer savings 12 account from which the payment of eligible costs for the purchase of a single-family 13 residence is made and has a fiduciary duty to the person for whose benefit the account is 14 administered. Except for reporting and remitting of penalties to the Civil Penalty and 15 Forfeitures Fund, a financial institution shall administer a first-time home buyer's 16 savings account as a regular deposit. A financial institution is not responsible for the use 17 or applications of funds.

18       (b) An account administrator may use funds held in a first-time home buyer 19 savings account only for the purpose of paying the eligible costs of the account holder 20 or paying the expenses of administering the account.

21       (c) The account holder may submit documentation of eligible costs paid by the 22 account holder in the tax year to the account administrator, and the account 23 administrator shall reimburse the account holder from the account holder's account for 24 eligible costs for the first-time purchase of a single-family residence. The burden of 25 proving that a withdrawal from a first-time home buyer's savings account was made for 26 eligible costs is upon the account holder and not upon the account administrator.

27       (d) Within 30 days after an account administrator begins to administer an 28 account, the account administrator shall notify in writing each account holder on whose 29 behalf the account administrator administers an account of the date of the last business 30 day of the account administrator's business year.

31 "§ 53-536. False claims prohibited, penalty.

32       A person may not knowingly prepare or cause to be prepared a false claim, receipt,
33 statement, or billing to justify the withdrawal of money from an account."
