OVERVIEW: House Bill 194 would allow federal judges and federal prosecutors, who have a valid North Carolina concealed handgun permit, to carry a firearm in certain restricted areas.

CURRENT LAW: G.S. 14-269(a1) prohibits a person from carrying a concealed firearm in public unless a person has a valid concealed handgun permit.

Even if a person has a valid concealed handgun permit, it does not allow them to carry a firearm in certain locations, including state courts, other government buildings, and schools.

G.S. 14-269(b) lists certain people who are exempt from G.S. 14-269(a1), and therefore may carry a concealed firearm in the otherwise restricted areas. Some examples include:

- Law enforcement officers.
- North Carolina judges who have a concealed carry permit.
- District attorneys who have a concealed carry permit.

BILL ANALYSIS: House Bill 194 would include federal judges and federal prosecutors, who have a valid North Carolina concealed handgun permit, in the list of people exempt from G.S. 14-269(a1), and therefore allowed to carry firearms in areas otherwise restricted, including inside state courts.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This act becomes effective December 1, 2021, and applies to offenses committed on or after that date.
