IT'S TIME to flex your POTENTIAL

You're smart. Hardworking. You have the potential to go far.
But without a college degree, it's not easy to get ahead. You'd like to go back to school, but between work and family, how would you make it fit?

Introducing the University of Wisconsin Flexible Option—a more personalized, convenient, and affordable way to reach your education and career goals.

Take control of your education

A partnership between University of Wisconsin System campuses and UW-Extension, the UW Flexible Option is specially designed to fit the lives of working adults like you.

Its self-paced, competency-based format lets you start any month, work at your pace, and earn credit for what you already know. With the Flexible Option, you don't come to campus and you'll never spend time or money taking courses you don't need.

At last, you can earn the University of Wisconsin degree you need to advance your career—whenever and wherever your schedule allows!

COMPETENCY-BASED EDUCATION

IT'S WHAT YOU KNOW that counts

The University of Wisconsin Flexible Option offers a new way to earn a UW degree or certificate because it awards credit based on competency, not class time. This special difference puts you in control of your education as never before.

In education, the term competency refers to the skills, knowledge, attitudes, and abilities that students are expected to master in a field of study. In other words, competencies are learning outcomes—the things you should know and be able to do.

The idea of competencies is not unique to the UW Flexible Option. What is unique is the Flexible Option's competency-based format. Unlike traditional degree programs, the Flexible Option lets you earn credit based on how well you've mastered the competencies that are essential to your chosen degree—not on the number of hours you've spent in a classroom.

Learn at your own pace . . .

By emphasizing competency over credit hours, the UW Flex Option lets you advance toward a UW degree at a pace you decide. As soon as you can pass an assessment that proves you have mastered a competency—whether it's a test, thesis paper, interview, or hands-on demonstration—you can move on to the next competency and assessment.

. . . and earn credit for what you already know.

A major benefit of competency-based education is that it allows you to draw upon existing knowledge to make progress toward your degree. It doesn't matter where you gained your knowledge—from prior courses, work experience, military training, or other experiences. If you know it, you can use it to pass assessments more quickly—and potentially accelerate your time to graduation.

Master the skills employers value

A degree is only as good as the education behind it. That's why distinguished UW faculty draw upon the latest standards in business and industry to identify the essential competencies required for graduation. This ensures that UW Flexible Option students are equipped with the knowledge and skills employers want and need.

move forward AT YOUR OWN PACE

WITH HELP FROM A PERSONAL SUCCESS COACH

Earning a UW degree through the Flexible Option format is every bit as challenging as earning a UW degree through traditional means. You'll be expected to meet the same rigorous academic standards for which all UW degrees are known. That's why the UW Flexible Option partners every student with an Academic Success Coach for personalized mentoring and advising.

Your coach will work with you to create a learning plan and timeline customized to fit your goals and knowledge. He or she will also help you prepare for assessments and point you to the learning resources you need to succeed. These resources can include textbooks, Web pages, and free online resources offered by other universities—as well as credit-based courses, structured internships, service projects, and work and practical experiences.

The UW Flexible Option puts you in control of your own learning, but your Academic Success Coach is always there to help.

Save time and money with flat-rate tuition

The UW Flexible Option offers an affordable way to earn a UW degree or certificate. Instead of paying by course or by credit, you pay a flat rate for a subscription period you choose. Are you highly motivated with lots of experience? Choose the "All-You-Can-Learn" option to move as fast as you are able through your competencies and assessments. Want to study at a slower pace? The "Single Competency-Set" option is for you. Visit flex.wisconsin.edu for details.

Hiring managers prefer public university degrees

When asked their overall opinion of the four major higher education options, hiring managers ranked public universities highest (88% positive) compared with private (82%), community (76%), and for-profit colleges (60%).
